The screenshot displays the Welotec web interface. On the left, a sidebar menu includes options like 'Active connections', 'Device to network connections', 'Devices', 'Templates', 'Configs', 'Firmwares', 'Logs', 'Users', 'Devices authentication', 'Access tags', 'Labels', and 'Import'. The main content area is divided into two panels. The left panel, titled 'Communication logs - List', shows a table of logs with columns for Level, Device, Message, Serial number, Primary firmware version, and Created at. The right panel, titled 'Configs - List', shows a table of configurations with columns for Device type, Name, Generator, Content, Created at, Updated at, and Actions. Below these panels, a modal window titled 'packing_machine_v2' is open, showing a configuration template for a packing machine. The modal includes fields for Description, Device description, Device labels, Config, Firmware, Variables, Masquerading, Devices virtual subnet size, Endpoint devices, and Access tags. The 'Access tags' section is expanded, showing a table with columns for Name, Physical IP Address, Virtual IP address, and Access tags.
